This tactile, wall-mounted sculpture is composed of glazed ceramic tiles that morph from a rounded form into a more complex module.

The Metamorphosis Series speaks to transitions, which are expressed through changes in shape from one end of the piece to the other. The artwork begins with the installation of a single unit on the wall. The piece then begins to grow with the addition of units that link to the one installed, ultimately resulting in a large work that relies on individual units to maintain the position of the collective.

Available for custom commissioning. Please contact for pricing and options.
